REMOVE AN FPC

If an FPC can no longer serve, you may deactivate them by clicking the “link” icon.

Once the FPC is deactivated, you can nominate a new person to be the FPC.

Should the FPC want to serve again in the future, you will be able to see their past nomination description.
